Aaryan Haldankar

Designing between what’s possible and what’s meaningful.

I’m a transportation designer and problem solver who works as a bridge between feasibility and emotion—combining technical understanding with human-centered thinking to create products, systems, and experiences that matter.

Design · Engineering · Systems · Human Experience